8. Oral Promises/ Commitments

The University believes that mere casual conversations are not commitments. Where such conversations have led to commitments the onus is obviously on the employee to submit proof of such commitments if at all made. In absence of any written commitment, no individual and no University can ever get to the truth of such claims. And therefore, any side talk or commitment unless duly recorded are unfounded and untenable.

While such claims are generally without any substance, they end up causing needless stress and wastage of time. Oral promises do not constitute a contract between the individual and the University and are by no way binding on the University. Such oral talks even if so held sans contract, do not constitute any enforceable claims. Rewards are at best contextual, linked to obligations or performance or responsibility. A written contract therefore states in black and white the obligations followed by the reward and is therefore acknowledged and enforced by the University as opposed to unfounded promises.

(i) Grant of Leave in the Event of Resignation:

(i) Earned Leave for Non-Vacation Employee:

For Non-Vacation employees, earned leave will be admissible @ 1 day per 12 days of period spent on duty – subject to a maximum of 30 days in a year. However, for a fresh

5. PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL SYSTEM

5.1 INTRODUCTION

Our appraisal policy outlines the process and guidelines for evaluating and assessing the performance and development of our employees.

5.2 OBJECTIVE

The objective of the appraisal process is to recognize achievements, provide constructive feedback, identify areas for improvement, and align individual goals with organizational objectives.

5.3 APPLICABILITY

This policy is applicable to all employees of Bennett University

5.4 POLICY PROCESS

5.4.1 PERFORMANCE EVALUATION

Performance evaluations will be conducted on an annual basis, or as determined by the organization. During this process, supervisors or managers will assess the performance of their team members based on predefined performance criteria and objectives.

5.4.2 GOAL SETTING

A Goal is a measurable end-result having one or more objectives to be achieved within a fixed time-frame.

Set goals (targets) are measured against actual achievements for the assessment period, and goals also are set for the next/coming assessment cycle. This needs to be done jointly by the appraise and appraiser. Developing sound goals is critical to managing individual and team's performance.

5.4.3 GUIDELINES FOR SETTING GOALS

Goals need to be SMAART: If goals aren't reachable, they are not worth setting. All you have to do is to set realistic goals and follow the guidelines of SMART goals.

5.4.4 WHAT DOES SMAART STANDS FOR?

SPECIFIC	MEASURABLE	ATTAINABLE	ALIGNED	RESULT-ORIENTED	TIME BOUND
Does the goal focus on a specific area?	Can progress be measured for the goal?	Is the goal a "stretch", yet still within my control?	Is the goal aligned to my manger's goals?	Does the goal measure actual outputs /results, not just activities?	Has a reasonable timeframe been identified to achieve the goal?
Does the goal begin with an action verb? (To/ in order to +verb)?	Is the: numeric/quantitative? Or descriptive/qualitative? or Financial?	Is the goal sufficiently and reasonably limited in scope?	Is the goal of my team members aligned to my goals?	Do the results include products, deliverables or accomplishments?
			Are all goals aligned to the department/ organization goals?
			Are my goals aligned to those of other departments?

5.4.5 BALANCE SCORE CARD

The balanced score card is a strategic planning and management system that is used extensively in organizations worldwide to align business activities to the vision and strategy of the organization. This helps us to improve internal and external communications, and monitor organization performance against strategic goals. It was developed by Drs. Robert Kaplan (Harvard Business School) and David Norton as a performance measurement framework that added strategic non-financial performance measures to traditional financial metrics to give managers and executives a more 'balanced' view of organizational performance, as represented below:

5.4.6 PERSPECTIVES

The balanced scorecard suggests that we view the organization from four perspectives, and to develop metrics, collect data and analyze it relative to each of these perspectives:

(i) THE LEARNING& GROWTH PERSPECTIVE

This perspective includes employee training and corporate cultural attitudes related to both individual and corporate self-improvement. In any case, learning and growth constitute the essential foundation for success of any knowledge-worker organization.

(ii) THE BUSINESS PROCESS PERSPECTIVE

This perspective refers to internal business processes. Metrics based on this perspective allow the managers to know how well their business is running, and whether its products and services conform to customer requirements (the mission).

(iii)THE CUSTOMER PERSPECTIVE

Recent management philosophy has shown an increasing realization of the importance of customer focus and customer satisfaction in any business. These are leading indicators: if customers are not satisfied, they will eventually find other suppliers that will meet their needs. Poor performance from this perspective is thus a leading indicator of future decline, even though the current financial picture may look good.

(iv) THE FINANCIAL PERSPECTIVE

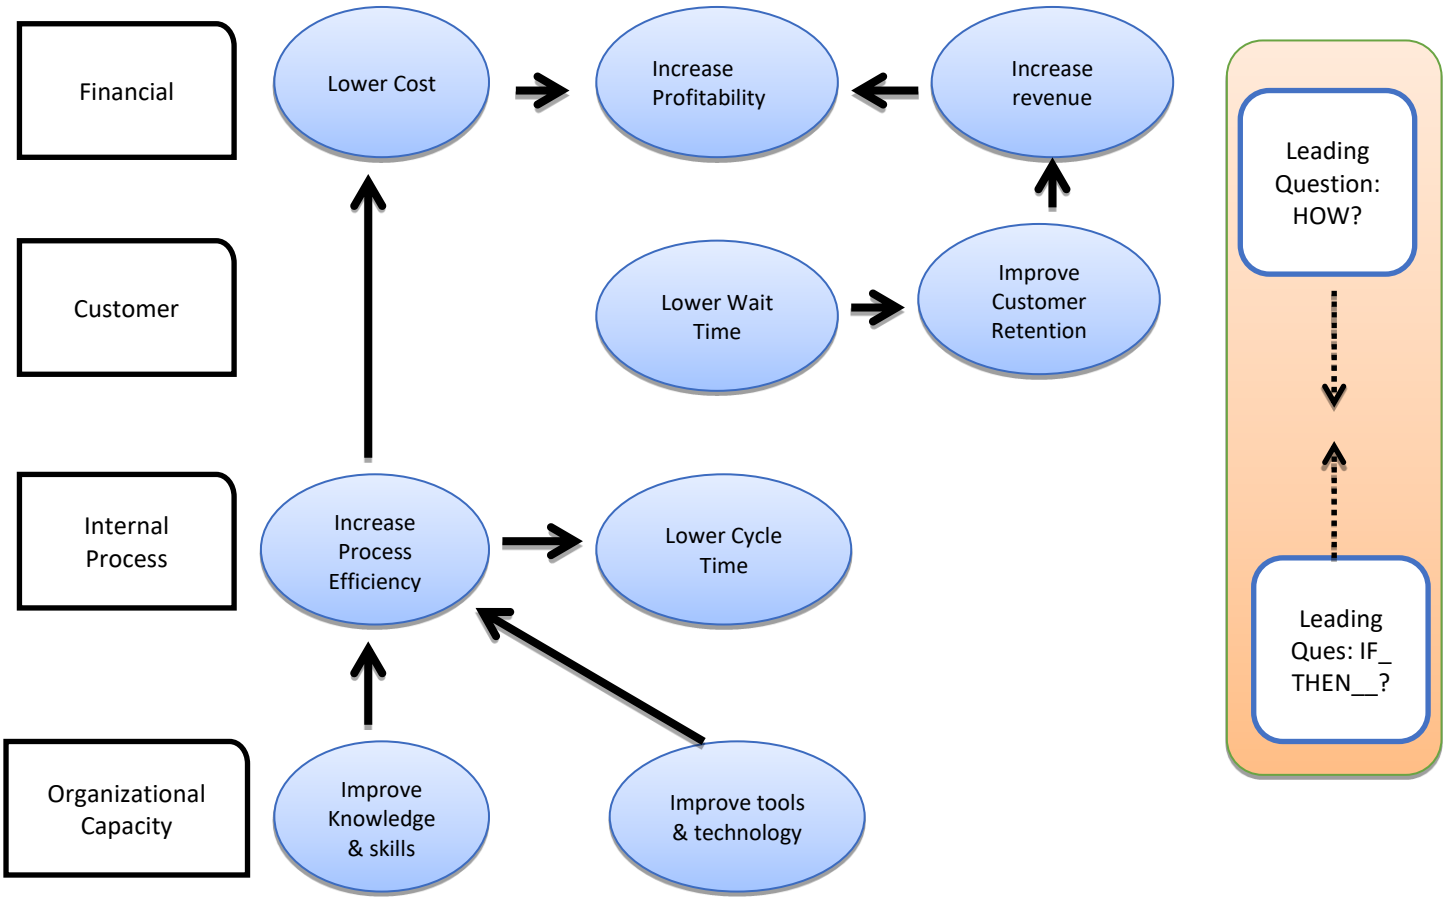
Timely and accurate funding data will always be a priority, and managers will do whatever necessary to provide it. In fact, often there is more than enough handling and processing of financial data. With the implementation of a corporate database, it is hoped that more of the processing can be centralized and automated. But the point is that the current emphasis on financials leads to the "unbalanced" situation with regard to other perspectives. There is perhaps a need to include additional financial-related data, such as risk assessment and cost-benefit data, in this category.

5.4.7 HOW DOES THE BALANCE SCORE CARD WORK?



ALL THE GOALS WHICH WOULD BE SET BY AN INDIVIDUAL OR TEAM, HAVE TO ALIGN TO THE BALANCE SCORE CARD.

FOR EXAMPLE:

Ex #1 If the organization's vision is to have a turnover via admissions of X Crores, the admission Leader's biggest chunk of goal would be X. The same being the top-most "Goal" can have a weightage of 50 percentage or thereabout. Now this goal directly impacts the financial and business perspective of the Balance Score Card. This goal will get further divided into achievable for each team member in the admission team.

Ex #2 In HR Team, the person contributing in resourcing should have the largest chunk of Goals in terms of positions closed within the TAT of 30 days from the raising of requisition. This would directly impact (internal) customer, and business perspective of Balance Score Card. Hence this would be approximately 50 percent weightage of year's target.

Ex # 3 In Academics, a direct goal is number of man hours of sessions taken by the faculty. It would also include the efficiency and effectiveness, in terms of bandwidth (breadth and depth), relevance, method of delivery, and feedback of the students.

5.4.8 ASSESSMENT OF GOALS ACHIEVED & ITS' ALIGNMENT

1) The assessment of each goal is based on the weightage given to it.
2) This assessment is first to be done by the Appraisee; what s/he has actually achieved, should be noted for each goal.
3) The Appraiser and Reviewer may then review the assessment of the appraisee, and revise the scores given by him/her, if required.
4) Please note that a goal should not have a weightage of more than 50 percent and should not be less than 10 percent. An ideal goal sheet should have 4-6 goals for the Annual Appraisal.

5.4.9 ALIGNMENT OF GOALS

Each employee's goals should be aligned to:

- His/her Reporting Head's
- Department's/Portal's Goal
- Business objectives of the Organization

5.5 REVIEW PROCESS

For the period of July 01, 2021 – June 30, 2022, we would be evaluating through this annual appraisal.

This includes goal setting, self-appraisal, appraiser, and reviewer feedback. Review process will be followed thereafter, and an individual performance improvement plan would be introduced wherever necessary.

❖ ONGOING FEEDBACK AND COACHING:

Regular feedback and coaching sessions will be conducted throughout the performance cycle to provide guidance, support, and encouragement to employees. These sessions will focus on recognizing achievements, addressing challenges, and identifying opportunities for growth.

❖ PERFORMANCE ASSESSMENT:

The performance assessment will be based on a fair and objective evaluation of an employee's accomplishments, skills, competencies, and behaviours. It may include inputs from multiple sources, such as self-assessments, supervisor evaluations, peer feedback, and customer/client feedback if applicable.

❖ PERFORMANCE RATING:

Employees will be assigned a performance rating based on the assessment results. This rating may be numerical, descriptive, or based on a predefined scale. The rating will reflect the employee's overall performance and may influence decisions related to promotions, salary adjustments, and career development opportunities.

❖ PERFORMANCE DISCUSSIONS:

Following the performance assessment, supervisors will conduct performance discussions with their employees. These discussions will provide an opportunity to share the evaluation results, discuss strengths and areas for improvement, and set objectives for the upcoming performance period.

❖ RECOGNITION AND REWARDS:

Exceptional performance and achievements will be recognized and rewarded through various mechanisms, such as merit-based salary increases, promotions, or other forms of recognition and appreciation.

❖ APPEALS AND DISPUTE RESOLUTION:

A mechanism for appeals and dispute resolution will be in place to address any concerns or grievances related to the appraisal process. Employees will have the right to provide feedback, seek clarification, or request a review of their performance assessment if they believe it to be unfair or inaccurate.

❖ CONFIDENTIALITY AND DATA PROTECTION:

All performance-related information will be treated confidentially and in compliance with applicable data protection laws. Access to such information will be limited to authorized individuals involved in the appraisal process.

❖ POLICY REVIEW:

This appraisal policy will be periodically reviewed and updated as needed to ensure its effectiveness and alignment with the organization's goals and objectives.

By implementing this appraisal policy, we aim to foster a culture of continuous improvement, recognize, and reward high performance, and provide opportunities for employee development and growth.
